

Dog-Friendly Destinations in Los Angeles

by CJ Arabia (Subscribe to CJ Arabia's posts)
Mar 11th 2011 @ 1:00PM Filed Under: Dogs, Traveling with Pets

Pussy & Pooch Pawbar

Dog owners are always on the lookout for fun, friendly places they can take their pets. We were recently invited by Chevrolet to tool around with their pooch-loving pros to check out the Best of Dog-Friendly Businesses Tour of Los Angeles. Here are four L.A. destinations that welcome furry friends.

Pussy & Pooch

564 S. Main St., Los Angeles, 90013
If you're in the downtown area, Pussy & Pooch is truly one of the best pet stores in Los Angeles. Not only does it stock awesome pet toys, beds and clothes, the Pawbar has a daily selection of raw meat meals, simmered stews and meaty bones, in addition to gourmet treats, snacks and more. With prices ranging from $3 for a quick snack to $7 for a full-size meal for a large dog, you can't go wrong. My pup enjoyed the beef stew -- so much so that I had to get her a second bowl!

Silver Lake Dog Park

1873 Silver Lake Blvd., Los Angeles, 90026
If you want a quiet place to reflect with your dog, this isn't it; this is more like a 1.25-acre nightclub of dirty, furry fun. There are always lots of other dogs and a few shady spots to sit on a sunny day. The people are cool, and it's a great place to spot celebs and their pups!

D Pet Hotel

D Pet Hotel

1041 N. Highland Ave., Los Angeles, 90038
Owners worry a lot about their canine children which makes travelling without them all the more difficult. Nobody takes care of our dogs like we do, but the D Pet Hotel comes pretty darn close. Dogs play all day with other dogs of compatible sizes and personalities. Then it's dinner, a movie (usually a Disney flick) and bedtime. Yes, every suite in the D Pet Hotel has a flat-screen TV (rooms might look nice enough for a human sleepover, but the D Pet Hotel says pets only).

Doggie guests can also enjoy full use of the facility, getting a workout on one of the doggie treadmills or in the 6,000-square-foot indoor play area. If your pooch needs pampering, the D Pet Hotel offers a full array of doggie delights: body wraps, fur/hair coloring, teeth cleaning, massages, and pedicures. Plus, there's a vet available 24 hours a day.

Rates run $90 to $110 per night.

Birds Cafe-Bar

5925 Franklin Ave., Hollywood, 90028
When you and your pup get hungry, eat at Birds Cafe-Bar. There's not a pet menu, but the patio is pet friendly. With your furry companion at your feet, have a cocktail and a meal and watch the hipsters going for coffee at the Bourgeois Pig, just a few doors down. Order a chicken breast or burger without the bun if poochie needs a snack; ask nicely and a server will bring a bowl of water.

Los Angeles is full of dog-friendly destinations. Do you have favorites? Please tell us in the comments below.

Tags: birds restaurant, chateau marmont, d pet hotel, dog-friendly, dog-friendly los angeles, los angeles, pussy and pooch, The Silverlake Dog Park

bundle & save
AT&T Home Phone + Internet

starting under $36/mo
for 12 months

LEARN MORE

1-year price guarantee on select services

Advertisement

twitter

follow us

facebook

become a fan

Newsletter

sign up now

Sign up for our e-mail newsletter so you'll always know what's happening on Paw Nation.

SIGN UP

paw nation for iPhone is here.

Download Now

Can't Miss Galleries

Black Dog & Leventhal, Inc.

10 photos

Today's Popular Articles

1 Crash Kittens Cause Cutest Collisions

2 Chinchillas in Wine Glasses