Show a Little Love for Your Best Friend

March 24, 2010 by Madeline C.

Animals bring so much joy and love into our worlds. Have you shown your pet any in return lately? From new toys to gourmet meals or maybe even a new addition to your family, these Los Angeles spots know how to treat animals well.

Animal Wellness Centers

Annie Harvilicz bases all treatment and products she uses on the “Lucy Test,” asking the question of whether or not she would use it on her own dog, Lucy. This personal approach to pet health is what makes Animal Wellness Centers a trusted place. They offer all kinds of services from nutritional analysis to acupuncture. Pets need great doctors too, you know, and you can count on Dr. Annie to help heal your best friend.

Pussy & Pooch

Not only does Janene Zakrajsek's shop have a retail store, but Pussy & Pooch takes pampering your pet to a whole new level. Treat your pet to some delicious raw foods and treats at the Pawbar. From burgers to fro-yo to beer, the Pawbar's menu is pet-friendly! Next, give your pet a nice bath and maybe even a haircut at the full-service salon. Looks like all dogs DO go to heaven—in the earthly form of Pussy & Pooch.

Woof Worx

Jamie Katz's Woof Worx is a more traditional experience for your pet. They offer grooming and training for your puppy as well as treats and toys. Woof Worx carries organic pet foods to keep your best friend healthy and green, just like you! One thing you won't see at Woof Worx is a cage full of puppies for sale. Supporters of the “Puppies Aren't Products” Campaign, they adopt puppies from local shelters and keep them in their cage-free rescue space where they can play with toys and socialize. They are just waiting for you to bring them home!
